

image is key

Your office environment is a key influence on your employee's wellbeing and productivity. While investing in furniture is often perceived as being costly, local companies such as acs are offering new ways to significantly reduce your total cost of ownership.

Dated or damaged furniture does not only impact on customers' perceptions of your company. Unfortunately, it can also de-motivate your employees leading to a reduction in productivity and efficiencies.

The good news is that updating your office furniture is no longer a costly investment. For just £17 per user, per month your offices can be equipped with the latest furniture designed to combine style and functionality. Included in this price is a complete furniture refresh every 3 years to ensure that your staff always feel valued, proud and motivated in their working environment.

from concept to completion

As well as substantially reducing your TCO, your business can also benefit from acs's years of experience in furniture and office environments. To help you choose the right solution for your organisation, acs employs a dedicated furniture division consisting of space planners, furniture and interior consultants and a trained installation team. Working together they will take your project from concept to completion, saving you time, money and hassle.

seeing is believing

Following a full site survey, you will be invited to visit the acs showrooms and get 'hands on' with your recommended furniture before making a decision. Often a brochure or catalogue does not offer a true reflection of how the items will look in your own office space; this visit will allow you to visualise your chosen look in a real-life working environment and try it to see if it suits both your ergonomic and business needs.

3D visualisation

Once you've decided on the style that best suits your organisation, the acs design team will produce 2D and 3D plans using the exact furniture, colours and finishes you have chosen. Using the latest technology, you can even experience a 'walkthrough' to see your new office environment in scale and from every angle. All drawings are created following ISO9001: 2001 procedures and can be produced to adhere to your health & safety regulations.

delivery and installation

To make things as easy as possible for you, all installations are completed free of charge by a team of trained and experienced fitters. They will ensure that the project is well planned and completed on schedule - all at a time that suits you and your organisation.

Where cabling, building works, partitioning or IT installation is involved, acs will also assign a dedicated project manager to co-ordinate the work. This ensures that you are able to concentrate on your priority - running your business. Upon completion and before leaving, the team will check that you are happy with everything. Finally, all old equipment will be removed from site for recycling and the area will be left clean and tidy.
